Aimed primarily at LUMC researchers, this short but concise course consists of an introduction to the LUMC GitLab. The course takes approximately three hours and provides participants an insight into how GitLab utilization enhances collaboration and greatly simplifies project management. The lessons are interactive, thus we encourage you to bring your own laptop. However, we can also provide you with a laptop, but please let us know in advance.

Course is free of charge.

There is a minimum of 8 and a maximum of 15 places. Should an edition of the course be oversubscribed then places will be allocated based on a first-come first-serve basis.
